

SLOW DANCING HOLDS TERPSICHORE SPOTLIGHT

Cecil DaCosta Back From Trip to New York—Sudden Upheaval

According to Cecil Da Costa, dancing instructor of this city, who has just returned from a trip to New York to get information on the latest in terpsichore work, there has been a sudden upheaval in the dance as a result of the lengthening of the dresses.

"The smart thing now is slow dancing," said Mr. Da Costa. "It is quite dignified and really, when one sees the people doing this form of dancing, who used to be doing the 'whoopie' variety, it is really amusing."

He continued: "This year is going to be the ideal year for the middle-aged couples. We are coming back to the bed-rock dancing; that is, the fox trot and waltz in their original form. The waltz has gradually been becoming modernized; that is, the fox trot step is being utilized in the waltz."

The tap dancing, according to Mr. Da Costa, is continuing in popularity. There is this difference, however. There are twice as many taps done as formerly to one bar of music. Formerly it was straight buck dancing, done to fox trot music. Now it is being done in triple time. This was invented by Jack Manning of New York.

"It is really dancing to slow music, but the dancer doubles or triples the number of taps usually done to one bar," he explained.

Mel and Arden Keay are starting intimate little Sunday night gatherings, when excerpts from plays will be presented and conversation turn on the theatre. Sliding doors at the back of their living room on Spadina Ave., open up on to an improvised stage, complete with footlights. A few friends were invited in, on a Sunday, to see a rehearsal of the tower scene from the Maxwell Anderson play, "Elizabeth the Queen," which the Toronto Repertory theatre is presenting at the Margaret Eaton theatre the end of the month. The gallery were so enthusiastic about the Sunday night idea that the Keays have decided to continue it. Among those present on this first occasion were Josephine Barrington, Nella Jefferis, Mrs. de Bruno Austin, Mrs. John Garvin, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Prof. Arthur Stevenson, Nunzia D'Angelo, Harrison Scheak, the W.R.C. Folkes, Poul Bai.

The Keay home these days is a hive of activity. Mel is designing most of the costumes for the coming play and someone is constantly dropping in "to help." You would never know that the basis of many of these gowns was found in the Junior League Opportunity Shop . . . old evening dresses and wraps, still glittering bravely, though out of date. Mel went to purchase some and now the girls send him leftovers. Even the "Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Fur Bearing Animals" is doing its bit, and has presented Mel with all its ermine (synthetic, of course). Mel has remade, combined, transformed, with a bit of dye here and a touch of gold paint there, until he has created gorgeous Elizabethan costumes from the material he has. Young Peter Keay, five years old, can recite most of the lines of the play which is evolving under his eyes daily. He admits he is understudying Joseph O'Sullivan, "the Fool," and plays up in spirited fashion to "Elizabeth," his mother and Robert Chidwick, "Lord Essex." Incidentally the play is being revived by the Lunts for the World's Fair,

Gibraltar, Jan. 16.—Naval authorities announced today two-day exercises by the home fleet and vessels stationed here will start next Sunday to test Gibraltar's strength under wartime conditions.

The manoeuvres will be a prelude to war games by the French Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets which leave their bases at Toulon and Brest Wednesday for the western Mediterranean.

The French Mediterranean fleet, at least, is expected to meet the British home fleet on its regular spring cruise in the Mediterranean.

FAMILY CATCH THIEF HE GETS TWO YEARS

Special to The Star

Hamilton, Jan. 16.—Caught as he emerged from a house Saturday night, Leslie Stewart, barber, was sentenced today to two years less one day definite and six months indefinite. He was charged with housebreaking and theft.

On a charge of theft of a bottle of whiskey and $4 in money from the room of a Chinese cook, Stewart was given six months concurrent.

Mrs. Mary Brunaccioni, her 18-year-old son, Serge, and Manelto Goldencea, a nephew who lives with Mrs. Brunaccioni, returned from a trip to the country and as they drove into the side drive they noticed a man leaving the back porch. Stewart was held until the arrival of Constables MacGregor and Green.

The complainant is Sam Lichtenstein.

THE BROTHER OF PAULINE JOHNSON

IN MEMORIAM, BY H. M. EGERTON.

"Mohawk Church, Grand River, Upper Canada, the oldest Episcopal Church in Canada. Here Peter Jones was baptized, and 2, here Capt. Brant was buried." This quaint inscription was under an old print in the History of the Ojibway Indians. Note the figure "2" for "too."

The late Allen W. Johnson, who died on the 19th of June, a year ago, was a brother of Pauline Johnson, the famous Canadian poet, and a great grandson of Jacob Tekahionwake Johnson, a Mohawk Chief of the Wolf clan and god-son of Sir William Johnson, who, at the christening, requested that his family name be given to Tekahionwake. The aborigines originally had only names such as Madwayahshe, the whistling wind, the sound of the wind at the time of the child's birth having been noted by the parents who might have been impressed instead by the morning light and named their child Wah-bun-o, or by some other circumstance suggesting a different name still. Eventually, the Six Nations Indians came to find family names an advantage, if not a necessity. Wawanosh, Mr. Allen Johnson's middle name, which means "the beautiful sailor", is an Ojibway word, a friend of his father having requested that this be given him. Mr. Johnson's father, too, was a chief of the Mohawks, as was also his grandfather, John Sakayenquaradoh Johnson, U.E., (Sakayenquaradoh, "disappearing mist") who fought at Stoney Creek, Lundy's Lane, Queenston Heights and all along the frontier.

At the time of the American Revolution the majority of the Six Nations Indians fought on behalf of Great Britain, thus losing their beautiful and valuable lands in the Mohawk Valley. At the close of the war they came as U. E. Loyalists to Upper Canada where, according to an official report from Parliament, the successful issue of the later war of 1812-1814 was attributed to their bravery in common with the militia and regular forces.

Allen Johnson was a valued and enthusiastic member of the U. E. Loyalists Association of Canada, of which he was vice-president for seven years. He was a member also of the Empire Club. His mother was a cousin of the late Dean W. D. Howells. He himself was keenly interested in literature and Canadian history, and was a man of great personal charm.

The accompanying illustration published many years ago, shows the tomb of Captain Joseph Brant beside which now repose the remains of Allen Johnson whose widow this week is paying a visit to this historic burying-ground.

MAY BE OVERSUPPLY OF SWEET CLOVER SEED

Red Clover and Alfalfa Seed Production Insufficient for Home Needs.

One farm crop that gives promise of an all-sufficient yield at the coming harvest is that of sweet clover for seed. In fact, the seed trade holds the opinion that there is danger of over-production of that particular crop this year, the relatively high price for clover seed last year being the reason given for this opinion. "If only a small percentage of the fields producing sweet clover for forage this year are left for seed, it is very likely that sufficient seed will be produced to meet our entire requirements both for home consumption and export, particularly as there is no export outlet, except to the United States," says Seed, Feed and Fertilizer Markets in its mid-June review of the seed situation.

With regard to alsike, the seed trade generally concedes that year in and year out there is no safer or more profitable crop, there being a steady export demand for this seed. To a lesser extent the same may be said of alfalfa, and to a still lesser extent of red clover. The market for Canadian-grown alfalfa and red clover seed is largely in Canada, where it is needed most. The Dominion Seed Branch points out that our production of the two last mentioned kinds of seed during the past ten years has not been anything like sufficient to meet Canadian requirements.

Gatti-Casazza and Rosina Galli Wed in Surprise Opera Romance

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Rosina Galli, premier danseuse, were married yesterday morning and sailed last evening aboard the Cosulich liner Vulcania for a three-month wedding trip.

The ceremony was performed by Monsignor John A. Duffy at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Jersey City, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

It was not until several moments before the liner sailed at 5 p. m. that the impresario admitted that he was sailing with a bride. They boarded the liner about twelve minutes before its departure.

William Guard, publicity director of the Metropolitan, admitted that even he had not known of the marriage until he boarded the liner. Alfred Fellingsburg, lawyer for the Metropolitan Opera Company, bade the couple bon voyage at the pier.

The dancing career of Mrs. Gatti-

Casazza terminated with her marriage, but she will continue to direct the ballets and arrange dances for the Metropolitan.

Gatti-Casazza is sixty years old and his bride is thirty-three. Six months ago the danseuse denied that she and the impresario were engaged. She said then that she planned to marry in Milan.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatti-Casazza will disembark at Cannes, and after a brief stay, proceed to Milan and other Italian cities.

The impresario was a director at La Scala, in Milan, when his bride began her studies of the dance there at the age of seven. They have been close friends for a generation.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza was divorced several years ago by Mme. Frances Alda.

His secretary, Luigi Valla, and Mrs. Valla also sailed on the Vulcania.

as a chivalrous rescuer, the lunatic escorted Miss May away from the scene and left her at a bus stop. He took the precaution to threaten to kill the two girls if they told what had happened.

Miss May's account of what had happened struck the detectives as too fantastic to be probable and, they continued their questioning until, in desperation, she told a series of new stories, gradually involving herself in a plot to kill Mo ynksi, who was a grocer of Cc ge Point. She was thereupon held in bail of $50,000.

As the madman's letters cleared up the crime, bail was reduced yesterday to $5,000. This was furnished by the girl's mother, Mrs. Alexander May. Miss Ring was released in custody of her father, David Ring, a policeman.

Avoids Traffic Lanes

In both crimes, the slayer took great precautions to insure himself against arrest. He selected automobiles which were parked considerable distances from traffic lanes. A week elapsed between the two crimes. In view of his worry about the "missing papers," it is probable that he passed the week looking for a chance to commit the second crime, but that he failed night after night to locate an automobile in so isolated a spot that he could proceed with the killing with any certainty of being secure against interruption. In spite of his obvious madness, the killer showed a wholesome respect for his own safety in the two crimes.

In view of the lurking and slinking characteristics which he has displayed,

Tells of Letter to Newspaper

"I have written to 'The New York Journal' requesting that paper to publish a warning in code to Mozynski's friends. I hope they will do it, as I do not want any more shooting. I am now waiting to see what they intend to do. We also know where Mozynski got the $9,000 that he put in the bank. I have told Miss May what he was, a rat, a blackmailer and drug peddler.

"We know the woman in College Point who is to blame for the trouble. Her and fourteen men are marked for death, if they do not return the papers in question and stop bleeding us to death. I am glad that I did not kill your daughter. She may suffer a great deal now, but I will force my friends to come forward and help her. I feel deeply sorry for the wife and children, but Mozynski had already tried twice to kill me, so it was him or me. It would be well for the police to check up on Mozynski's past life."

There is no real evidence that the slayer knew anything about either man that he was killing, but apparently after getting their names from papers in the pockets, wove them into the fantastic plots and counter plots with which his brain was seethin' All of

GATTI-CASAZZA WED TO ROSINA GALLI

Manager of Metropolitan and Bride Sail for France After Secret Ceremony Here.

SHE IS BALLET MISTRESS

Will Keep That Post With Opera Company, but Will Discontinue Dancing, Friends Say.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was married secretly yesterday to Miss Rosina Galli, danseuse and ballet mistress of the opera company. Passage was booked quietly on a Consulich liner and Mr. and Mrs. Gatti sailed late in the afternoon for Cannes, France.

The wedding ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock yesterday in the rectory of St. Joseph's Church at 511 Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, by the Rev. Mgr. John A. Duffy. As the ceremony was secretly arranged, there were no attendants excepting the regular witnesses, and the reading was a simple one.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza, accompanied by his bride, arrived at the West Forty-fourth Street pier only a few minutes before the Vulcania sailed. His passage had been arranged, and, without pausing at the passenger booth, he strode up the gangway, with Mrs. Gatti following. They hurried through the crowded decks and went immediately to the stateroom in which they will travel to Italy.

Every effort was made to keep the wedding and the departure of the couple a secret but the news became known a few minutes before the Vulcania steamed out of New York for the Mediterranean. Even Mr. Gatti-Casazza's closest friends were not aware that he had been married until a few minutes before sailing time, and there was no one to bid the couple good-bye but William Guard, publicity manager for the opera company, and Alfred A. Seligsberg, attorney for the company. The wedding was not a surprise, however, as Mr. Gatti-Casazza and Miss Galli, who were old friends, had been expected to wed for some time.

Mr. Guard, who seemed as surprised at the marriage as others of the director's host of friends, came aboard at the last minute and had a word with the couple before the gangway was withdrawn. He told reporters later that Mr. Gatti-Casazza would be away until Oct. 3 and would return at that time to take charge of the heavy program mapped out for the next season.

The opera manager is 63 years old and Miss Galli is about 34. He was divorced in Mexico two years ago by Mme. Frances Alda, opera singer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatti-Casazza met more than twenty-five years ago when she, as a small girl, appeared at La Scala when he was a director of the famous opera there. Starting life as a naval engineer, Mr. Gatti-Casazza followed his father into the theatrical business and at the age of 22 was said to be the youngest theatrical manager in the world.

Five years later he was appointed general manager of the La Scala in Milan and remained there until 1908 when he succeeded Heinrich Conried as manager of the Metropolitan Opera of New York.

After Mr. Gatti-Casazza came to America to join the Metropolitan Company Miss Galli, then a popular and skilled classic dancer, came to Chicago to join the Chicago Civic Opera. Subsequently she joined the ranks of the Metropolitan organization, where she has remained ever since.

It was said after the ship sailed that Mrs. Gatti-Casazza would discontinue dancing but would remain as ballet mistress of the opera company.

MISS HICKS GAINS IN GLEN HEAD GOLF

Defeats Mrs. Toerge, 4 and 3, in 2d Round of Long Island Championship.

MRS. HECKSCHER ADVANCES

Turns Back Mrs. Crisp, 4 and 3—
Mrs. Federman Beats Mrs.
Bassett, 6 and 4.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to the New York Times.

GLEN HEAD, N. Y., June 18.—Another fine round of golf by Miss Helen Hicks, the medalist and defending title holder, featured the second round of the women's Long Island golf championship at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club today.

Hitting the ball a proverbial mile and playing her iron shots beautifully, Miss Hicks for eleven consecutive holes used exactly forty-two strokes in her match against Mrs. N. K. Toerge of the Women's National, whom she subsequently defeated by 4 and 3.

Were it not for a 7 at the outset, when her ball was partly buried in a bunker, Miss Hicks undoubtedly would have accounted for an even greater round. On the next eight holes of the first nine, she carded a 31 and then played the following three holes in one under 4's.

Rival Plays Losing Match.

Against this sort of opposition, Mrs. Toerge played a hard but losing match to find herself 3 down at the turn. She won only two holes, for after the first it was not until the thirteenth that she could cut Miss Hicks's advantage. Here the Hewlett girl missed a mashie niblick shot after a fine drive and ended with a 5, while Mrs. Toerge sank her 4.

By gaining the semi-final, Miss Hicks will oppose a player who has twice been runner-up in the Metropolitan, Mrs. Vanderhoef Heckscher of Piping Rock, who has been playing splendidly here this week. Mrs. Heckscher eliminated Mrs. Van Deventer Crisp of the Women's National by 4 and 3, after leading by a margin of two holes at the turn.

Mrs. Leo Federman of Fresh Meadow defeated Mrs. William Bassett of Engineers by 6 and 4, gaining an advantage of 3 up at the turn. Scoring well despite five successive three-putt greens at the start of her match, Mrs. Federman was out in 43.

Holes 3 Birdies in Row.

Miss Hicks holed three birdies in succession beginning at the sixth, where a fine mashie shot left her only ten feet from the pin and she dropped the putt for a 3. At the 225-yard seventh she drove to the edge of the green and got down in two putts, and at the 411-yard eighth a drive, a No. 3 iron and two putts brought her a 4.

FIRST GATTI WEDDING VOID

R' Church Nullified His Marriage to Mme. Alda.

ery A declaration voiding Giulio Gatti-Casazza's wedding to Mme. Frances Alda was issued by the Archdiocese of New York to enable the general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company to marry Miss Rosina Galli, it was declared yesterday by the Very Rev. Thomas B. Glover, vice chancellor of the Newark Archdiocese. The declaration enabled the wedding to be held in St. Joseph's Church, Jersey City. It was issued, Father Glover said, because Mr. Gatti-Casazza's wedding to Mme. Alda was not performed by a Catholic priest. The opera singer divorced her in Mexico two years ago.

At the New York Archdiocese no comment would be made with regard to the issuing of the declaration, and the statement that it had been signed was made at the Newark Archdiocese.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatti-Casazza are at present on their way to Europe aboard the Cosulich liner Vulcania for their honeymoon.

The reaction of an audience is invaluable to the playwright and producing group. Those attending this evening are asked to comment upon our three plays, using this sheet for the purpose, and remaining a few moments to complete their remarks about "Murder Pattern" before leaving. If this is not convenient, mail criticisms to "The Play Workshop", Central High School of Commerce, 570 Shaw Street, Toronto.

Names will be clipped from the sheets before they are shown to members of the Workshop.

Ballet Titles Pauline Seller.

1. Cinderella - a ballet in 5 scenes
(A) A Glade in the Royal Park
(B) Kitchen at the Baron's.
(C) The Baronial Hall
(D) On the Road to the Palace.
(E) Conservatory and Ballroom in the Palace.

2. Le Spectre de la Rose - a ballet in one act. Its greatest achievement when Nijinsky leaped through the window at the climax of the ballet. Its composer Prokofiev.

3. Petrushka - a ballet in one act and four scenes.

Scenes (A) a fair held in mid winter
(B) Petrushka's cell.
(C) The home of the Moor.
(D) Same as scene one but time has elapsed.

This opera a masterpiece for its music

4. Les Sylphides ^(Prokofiev) Ballet in one act. Music = Chopin. Scene is in a sylvan glade. So certainly the most poetical of ballets of the 20th century and perhaps of all time. It demands faultless execution, purest sense of line, and perfect expressiveness, timing, and mood.

Le Carnaval - Ballet in one act is a study, in romanticism, a festival of joy, an evocation of pretty sentiment, light intrigue, and high spirits seen in a Victorian mirror.
Composer - Michael Dinkov.

The above quotations are all taken from the complete book of ballets by Cyril St. Beaumont.
They are to be given by the Ballet Russe in February.

"HIDALGO—who can transfix a moment."

Claude Bragdon

LUIS HIDALGO, the Mexican sculptor, has swept into American favor on the identical wave of art which brought to our view Rivera, Orozco, Charlot and Covarrubias—Mexican all, and artists of the first importance. Of these masters, Covarrubias and Hidalgo are undoubtedly the two greatest caricaturists in America today, the former in line and wash, the latter in a variety of plastic media—stone, metal, plaster, wax, wood and cork. No finer satirist has strayed into the province of sculpture for many a long day than LUIS HIDALGO. He is witty, mesanthropic, clairvoyant: and particularly is this true of his little wax figures so originally conceived, so brilliantly and fantastically decorated.

WILLIAM D. BARBOUR

BARBOUR HOUSE

FORMALLY OPENED

THANKSGIVING DAY, 1916

FOREWORD

Barbour House was built by the members and friends of the Brick Presbyterian Church and Christ Church with the idea of providing for business girls a pleasant and comfortable, yet inexpensive home.

The house has six sleeping floors, on which one hundred and thirty girls can be accommodated. Each floor is provided with bathrooms and showers, roomy trunk closets and telephones. On the first floor are the reception hall, large living room, two small parlors and dining room. The eighth floor has another large living room, small kitchenette, conservatory, and two open roofs, on which the girls can sleep.

A particular effort has been made by the management and by the girls, to provide a pleasant social life. On Sunday afternoons during the winter, our friends can be entertained at afternoon tea, served around the living room fire. In the summer, on Saturday evenings, the roof is open to guests, and is often the scene of gay parties. Most of the holidays bring with them an appropriate celebration or dance.

We all wish to make Barbour House a real home, not only a spot in which one can find living comfortable, but a place where one can form deep and lasting friendships, and find opportunity for self-expression and development.

Each one of us are on our honor to observe such habits as shall keep the House up to the highest standard possible. With this end in view we have adopted the suggestions that follow with the expectation of the hearty co-operation of every member and guest.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Callers are welcome on any day or evening until 11:30 P.M. Girls returning later than this hour, however, are requested to bring their friends into the Entrance Hall, rather than loiter outside the entrance.

Girls are not expected to leave the House after 11:00 P.M. Those expecting to be away over night leave name and address in the Night Book. Girls are requested to telephone the office if staying away unexpectedly. The House closes at 12:30.

Those arising early or coming in after 11:00 P.M. are expected to be as quiet as possible, so that others may not be disturbed.

We must remember that the Lounge and the Reception Hall are public rooms. It is better not to loiter in the Hall to the embarrassment of callers, nor to wear negligee garments in any of these rooms.

We should be most careful to draw our shades when dressing or undressing in order to insure the respect of outsiders.

Smoking is not allowed anywhere in Barbour House.

We pay our own bills: therefore, DON'T WASTE ELECTRICITY. Turn off the lights in your rooms and the bathroom when leaving. Don't injure the walls by the use of pins or tacks, which only spoil the rooms for your successor and call for decorator's charges.

Keep your room tidy and clean and leave the bathtub as you wish to find it.

Don't be too neighborly with your room-mate's clothing and toilet articles—she may need them.

All laundry work should be done in our fully equipped laundry, which may be used at any time except from 9:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M. on Wednesday— at .25c per month. Electrical attachments may be purchased at the office desk.

Electric irons or electrical appliances of any kind must not be used in the rooms. Girls are requested not to do laundry work in the bathrooms. In this way we may avoid possible plumber's bills and the more serious risk of infection from germs gathered from the streets.

Cleaning fluids may be used on the roof but not in the House.

The Secretary holds office hours from 5:30 to 7:30 P.M. on Monday. Board is paid at that time, in advance.

A week's notice is required when leaving.

Rooms are reserved for two weeks a year at half the regular rate, for those guests who have been in the House for six months or more, and for a longer period upon the payment of full rate. The management reserves the privilege of using the room during the absence of its occupant.

Rooms for guests may be arranged for at the office. Girls are not permitted to share their own beds.

In case of illness trays will be taken to the rooms without charge.

Each girl contributes 50c per month for medical service and for the upkeep of the medicine chest.

25c per month is contributed to an Amusement Fund.

The House will not be responsible for valuables left in rooms; those carefully marked with owner's name may be kept in the safe.

Keys to rooms are provided upon a deposit of 50c for each key, which amount will be returned when leaving the House unless keys are lost.

Be a good co-operator. Don't make your House suffer through failure to do your part. If you have a complaint or a suggestion for the good of the House, submit it in writing, properly signed, to the office.

Please follow this programme in order of events. First proceed to the Long Gallery where there will be a short talk on

"THE CHILD'S CONTRIBUTION TO ART EDUCATION"

by ARTHUR LISMER,

Professor of Fine Arts, Teachers College, Columbia University.

Then come Puppet shows by a group of 12 year old children.

One show will concern "MARTIANS", mysterious creatures who descend out of the sky. Another will be an ADVENTURE STORY of the jungle.

Then a Shadow play by 14 year olds--a history of sport with Etruscan, Greek, Roman, Mediaeval and modern figures in action.

This is followed by a procession of children--costumes such as they will wear in the Pageant in the court.

Immediately after the procession our visitors are requested to leave the Long Gallery and move through the corridors around the Sculpture Court in order to see the

SPRING FESTIVAL OF SPORTS AND GAMES

Here will be children jumping and skipping, playing marbles, dancing, singing, and arching. Children of many countries and times--modern youngsters on a holiday train trip alight with balloons and skipping ropes; prim New Englanders learning of corn cob dolls, and bows and arrows; Plyneseians in their long canoes; Japanese dancers in gorgeous colour moving slowly through the formal movements of their own particular ceremony; the chance meeting of a pirate band with a group of playful South Sea Islanders and finally a Mediaeval Maypole dance--typical festival of spring.

THANK YOU FOR COMING AND COME AGAIN

The Children's Art Centre will be open to visitors daily from 9 - 5 during Easter Week and also on May 5th, which is the opening date of the Annual Children's Exhibition at the Art Gallery of Toronto.

POOR CYRIL . . .

NOBODY ASKS HIM TO PARTIES
ANY MORE

Five years ago Cyril used to be socially acceptable -- the life of the party in fact.

Now he is a pariah. He's taken to brooding and biting his nails.

It's sad, but what can you expect?

HE DOESN'T KNOW WHAT'S GOING ON!

When somebody mentions China he talks about mandarins.

He thinks the CIO is a vitamin preparation.

When asked about the cagouards he says he doesn't like French cooking.

And what he doesn't know about the Cliveden set would put Lindberg back on his feet again!
